We are proud of all our wines. Nonetheless, throughout the list you will see that we have pointed you in certain directions, where you see a *, to save you time.

ITALY

ABRUZZO

Two major geographical influences provide a microclimate conducive to producing healthy fruit from the indigenous Montepulciano vine. The moderating effect from the Adriatic Sea, coupled with the ability of the Pennine mountains to trap warm air, creates Abruzzo's unique climate. A little-known fact is that many highly regarded wines from France and Italy contain varying measures of Abruzzo wines in their blend, thereby making Abruzzo important not just in its own right but for European winemaking as a whole. Our own Montepulciano D'Abruzzo remains excellent again this year, very easy to drink, Tre Saggi continues to impress as our higher-value entry from the region. Gran Sasso's Pecorino has sold very well and we are pleased to announce that we will also take on their spectacular Montepulciano's single vineyard.

CAMPANIA

When Italy started to overhaul its wines in the 1980's, Campania was ignored for a long time as being deeply unfashionable, sticking with native varieties such as Fiano Di Avellino and Falanghina at a time when everyone else was enthusing over the likes of Chardonnay and other young upstarts. However recently, in a trend spearheaded by the excellent wines from Vesevo, great attention has moved back to the interesting and unique flavours on offer from Campania's native grapes. As well as the Lacryma Christi wines we also have again our own Aglianico which has been of a consistently high quality ever since we started putting our name to our favourite bottles.

LOMBARDIA

From the northwest of Lombardia we have the 5 Stelle Sfursat from Negri, produced only in the best years in limited quantities from Chiavennasca, otherwise known as Nebbiolo, to produce a potent, deep red wine. Also worthy of consideration are the wines from around Lake Garda, which are represented here by a refined, subtle Merlot and some stunning whites. The new vintages from Cavalchina are amazing, the Bianco di Custoza in particular impressing with its electric acidity and delicious fruity flavours. The full-flavoured and creamy Lugana Brolettino from Ca' dei Frati completes the selection.

MARCHE

Located on the east coast of Italy, Marche produces great wine to match with the seafood-focussed cuisine of the region. The style of wine most well-known to international customers is Verdicchio, our Verdicchio Classico Stefano Antonucci from Santa Barbara remaining our example of choice. A dry wine, this possesses great length and concentration.

MOLISE

Molise's principal river is the Biferno, which lends its name to the region's most prestigious wine, produced in the province of Campobasso from Montepulciano, Aglianico and Trebbiano Toscano grapes. The rolling hills slope to the Adriatic Sea, where the suitability of the soil and the ideal climate make for excellent winemaking conditions.

PIEMONTE

The world-renowned Piemonte is the birthplace of many fine wines, mainly elegant and complex reds such as Barolo and Barbaresco. However Piemonte is also the home of Gavi, a clean and crisp wine backed by a fullness of flavour that has proved very popular of late. The Gavi di Gavi from Giustiniana is leagues ahead of any other Gavi we have tried. The Nebbiolo Langhe from Produttori del Barbaresco is an excellent introduction to both a superlative winemaker and to the region's more famous red wines.

PIEMONTE-BARBERA

While we may desire the prestige afforded by having a Piemontan wine on our dinner table, we aren't always in the mood for a heavy, oaky bruiser of a wine. For that we have Barbera, when made correctly an approachable early-drinking style. Araldica's Ceppi Storici has impressed enough for us to keep it on our list as has the cheaper Barbera from the same producer. We also have the more expensive La Luna e i Falo from the outstanding Terre da Vino along with the more full-bodied Conca Tre Pile from the highly respected Aldo Conterno.

PIEMONTE-BAROLO

The 2005 Barolos are of the highest quality. The Paesi Tuoi from Terredavino once again offers superb value for money, while still being highly pluggable. The new Ascheri Vigna dei Pola is a highly structured and very elegant wine, while the 2005 Massolino is a truly epic wine, with firm, gripping tannins and a great complexity of flavour. Splash out the extra for it, you will not be disappointed.

PUGLIA

Puglian wines have a reputation for being cheap, cheerful and heavy on the alcohol, owing to the region's hot and heavy climate. Our small but perfectly formed Puglian selection will make you cheerful but our Primitivo from Conviviale and our own label Brindisi Rosso display a little more refinement than you might expect. In particular Cantine Due Palme have outdone themselves on their new vintage of Brindisi, which is why we are glad to keep it as our representative of this region.

SARDEGNA

We continue to see good things from Sardegna, Cantine Santadi once more remaining our producer of choice. They have taken advantage of the excellent winemaking conditions to produce the Grotta Rossa and Rocca Rubia from Carignano grapes, each wine ascending in order of elegance and richness. We have also added a Cannonau Riserva from Sella & Mosca, an example of the most famous red wine in Sardegna which is a large, meaty wine.

SICILIA

Sicily contains more vineyards than any of the other Italian regions, but an average Sicilian consumes less wine than elsewhere in Italy - which means all the more for us! Planeta's range remain strong performers, combining more well-known grape varieties with some of Italy's finest indigenous produce. In addition we have the excellent-value Fiano and Nero D'Avola from Mandrarossa, the Fiano being a recipient of several IWC Gold medals.

TOSCANA

One of the primary regions of Italy for high-quality reds, Toscana holds the most DOCG denomination wines in the country. When coupled with the incredible quality of some of the wines designated IGT such as Tignanello, you have a region that is hard to beat in terms of the number of top-end wine styles produced. The key white wine is the stunning, dry, rich Vernaccia from Panizzi. As for reds we have a good selection of Rosso di Montalcino's and Rosso di Montepulciano, as well as their big brothers – the Vino Nobiles and Brunello Di Montalcinos from a variety of top-quality producers. Supertuscans from the likes of Le Pupille and Marchesi Antinori make up our respectable stock of both aged and young wine, there truly is something here for everyone.

TOSCANA-BRUNELLO

Toscana sadly suffered from an inconsistent year for quality wine production in 2002, some Brunello winemakers allegedly came under scrutiny for adding small amounts of Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot to their production to flesh out the wine. In the following years, however, standards have been higher than ever. These wines display great class and character, a must for any wine lover.

TOSCANA-CHIANTI CLASSICO

2007 vintages are utterly astounding, meaning that right now there are few better times to enjoy this iconic Italian red. Of particular note are the wines from Isole e Olena and Fontodi, who are responsible for the most outstanding Chiantis.

TOSCANA-CHIANTI RUFINA

Chianti Rufina is known for elegance and longevity. Once more we have been impressed by Selvapiana and so we have retained them on our list without hesitation. The standard release of Chianti has been blended with the grapes from the discontinued Riserva, making it a much better and more deeply concentrated wine than its Normale designation would have you believe. Their single-vineyard Bucerchiale is so delicious we are struggling to find new adjectives to describe its quality, so will instead just urge you to find out for yourself...

TOSCANA-ORNELLAIA

First released in 1985, Ornellaia is a blend of Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc and Merlot. Ornellaias combine the best of a good Bordeaux with the characteristic acidic freshness common to Italy to produce one of the finest Supertuscans. Our stocks are taken from around the turn of the century, as well as some which pre-date the creation of the IGT system!

TOSCANA-SASSICAIA

Voted number 2 out of 50 in Decanter Magazine's - Italy's Best-Ever Reds - feature, Sassicaia was the first of the Supertuscans to buck the trend of the restrictive DOC system to create a richer and more complex wine than the somewhat lighter local styles on offer. The Marquis Mario Incisa della Rocchetta used French grapes at his estate at Tenuta San Guido to produce this most excellent deep red wine. We are fortunate enough to have examples from many of the vintages produced over the past 20 years, from the good yet affordable ones to the stratospheric.

TOSCANA-TIGNANELLO

Marchese Antinori's most famous wine, the Tignanello is primarily Sangiovese blended with a touch of Cabernet Sauvignon and Cabernet Franc. While not the first of the Supertuscans (an honour belonging to Sassicaia), it was Tignanello which sparked revolutions in 1971 in the Italian wine industry over what was possible in the country's viticulture. This occurred not just because it was made with French grapes as an integral part of the blend, but because such a wine was just so good when grown in Italian soil.

TRENTINO ALTO-ADIGE

Lying on the border between Italy and Austria, the Germanic influence on the culture of the region and subsequently its viticulture has been considerable. Coupled with the cooler climate owing to its more northerly location, one should expect aromatic wines of great elegance and concentration. Franz Haas is an accomplished winemaker of tremendous skill with white wines, also worthy of careful consideration.

VENETO

Venetian reds range widely; from the light, easy to drink Valpolicella to the grand Amarone, you will find some vino rosso suitable for every occasion. In our collection we are privileged to have not one but three of the best producers in the region represented: Tommasi, Brigaldara and Allegrini. The whites are also very well known, with the Garganega grape being used by the likes of Pieropan to create the sort of refined, crisp wines you didn't know Soave was capable of becoming. We have also tracked down a new Pinot Grigio from Alpha Zeta which impressed us enough to take it on under our own label, replacing our previous version.

ITALIAN DESSERT WINES

At V&C we have a wide range of dessert wines, ranging from the light Moscato Passito from Araldica, bottled under our own label, to Recioto della Valpolicella from Giovanni Allegrini, and Vin Santo from some of the best Tuscan Chianti producers such as Leonardo and Capezzana, whose light wine range is also well-represented on our list. When creating a performance, you always want to have the audience leave on a high note: Treat your guests to a dessert wine at the end and ensure they leave singing to your tunes!

ITALIAN DRY SPARKLING

We are delighted to retain the range of Proseccos from Ruggeri, still head and shoulders above all of the other Proseccos we have tasted recently. They are fresh, light yet bursting full of flavour, the Riserva Giustino Bisol in particular so very complex at a relatively inexpensive price. For those looking for something in the vein of Champagne, try the range from Giulio Ferrari whose sparkling wines are very elegant and refined. We also have the Gran Cuvee Rose from Bellavista, outstanding sparkling wine from Franciacorta in Lombardy. Our sparkling range covers all prices and styles, making them perfect for any occasion!

ITALIAN SWEET SPARKLING

We have assembled a selection of good-quality sweet sparkling wines from across Italy which suit either as an accompaniment with desserts, as an aperitif, or even as a straightforward party fizz. Of particular note are the Gioioso Rosso and Bianco, firm favourites with the customers of V&C for many years. The same producer has also come up with a Fragolino, a delicate wine infused with strawberries. If you like delicate sweetness and fruity effervescence, then celebrate with one of our great selection.

REST OF THE WORLD

ARGENTINA

Just a few years ago a prospective wine buyer may have approached the idea of Argentinian wine with trepidation. However the sheer quality of wine on offer, particularly from the heart of Mendoza, has quickly forced a rethink. Pair a juicy steak with a Malbec-based powerhouse of blackberry and spice and you will be hard-pushed to drink anything else with your sirloin. The wines produced from Bonarda should also not be overlooked, having a more earthy character with pleasing aniseed notes. We have retained our wines from Las Liebres this year, as well as adding a young Malbec from Bianchi which is an undeniably great wine.

AUSTRALIA

ADELAIDE HILLS

Possessing a cooler climate compared to other regions of Australia, winemakers in Adelaide Hills have been doing great things with a variety of grapes. The majority of the region suits early-ripening styles such as Chardonnay and Pinot Noir while the northwest sees enough sun to allow the growth of high-quality Shiraz and Cabernet Sauvignon. We have on our shelves the wines from Michael Smith and Martin Shaw, excellent expressions of Chardonnay and Sauvignon Blanc for the white are joined by the great 2006 vintage of their Shiraz.

BAROSSA VALLEY

The Barossa Valley is one of the names people recognise when they think of heavy, intoxicating reds. Not wines for the faint-hearted, Shiraz and Grenache have been harnessed to produce reds possessing the kinds of fruit flavours (and alcohol levels!) to make you sit up and take notice. We draw our Barossan wines from the higher end of the price scale, Charles Melton's Chateauneuf-Du-Pape-beater Nine Popes and Rose of Virginia sitting proudly alongside the outstanding wines of John Duval, all expressions with a level of refinement and subtlety you might not expect from this region.

CHILE

When the Spanish imported grapes to make Communion wine in the 1500's, those less concerned with the liquid's application as part of a religious ceremony took to the production (and drinking!) of wine wholeheartedly. Today Chile is one of the greatest locations from which to get high-quality wine at relatively inexpensive prices. Our selection may appear cheap but there is nothing cheap about the fresh fruit and delicious flavours contained within. Of particular note are the wines made from Carmenere, spicy, earthy and powerful wines that hold up to a variety of strongly-flavoured meat dishes. De Gras have produced the best expression we have tasted to date.

ALSACE

The aromatic Gewurtztraminers and elegant Rieslings of Alsace denote the region as a byword for excellent crisp white wines. The perfumed noses of Alsatian wines are recommended as great matches for spiced Asian cuisine as their high levels of acidity cut through oily dishes easily. One of the best winemakers in this region is the Trimbach Estate, consistently producing highly-regarded wines every year!

BEAUJOLAIS

98% of the vineyards of Beaujolais are planted with Gamay vines, producing a wine which is light, easy to drink and perfect for social situations. While there are many inexpensive examples of this wine on the market, it is possible to coax a wine of high-quality and excellent craftsmanship from Gamay's fruity juice. Domaine Vissoux are one team who have the skill required to do just that, their Beaujolais demonstrating the approachable qualities of the region's output while retaining an elegant structure.

BORDEAUX RED

Where would the wine world be without the Cabernet Sauvignon/Merlot blends of Bordeaux? While its popularity amongst the casual wine-buyer was reduced by the newcomers from overseas, recent months have seen people returning to good old Claret. Demand for its finer Crus has always remained high regardless of current fashion, and some winemakers have experimented with some of the winemaking and marketing techniques from the likes of Australia and New Zealand. Our Bordeaux selection caters for this side of the market, the likes of La Freynelle not only printing the names of their grapes on the front of the bottle but – shock horror! – using screwcaps! A sure sign of welcome modernisation in the region without diluting the quality of the wine itself.

BURGUNDY RED

For the ultimate expressions of Pinot Noir, red Burgundy offers a wide variety of contrasting styles. The Boisset Bourgogne Pinot Noir is delicate yet shows piercing red fruit and good concentration on the nose, while the Clos de la Roche is a powerful and robust Pinot, full of tangy blackberry and spicy game and liquorice notes.

BURGUNDY WHITE

As with Pinot Noir, Chardonnay finds its spiritual home in Burgundy. These whites are among the best in the world, but with the premium price comes premium quality. There is restrained minerality and stone fruits in the La Colombe Chablis while the Perchaud Chablis Premier Cru has a buttery richness with ripe and rounded fruit.

CHAMPAGNE

To paraphrase Winston Churchill when speaking of Champagne, "In victory, you deserve it; In defeat, you need it". Champagne has long been associated with opulent celebration and success, the sort of wine you buy when a special occasion rolls around or as an expression of wealth. However as levels of disposable income have risen over the years, so has Champagne's accessibility risen to the point where some enjoy it every month or even every week with a meal. Billecart-Salmon is one Champagne producer who symbolise excellent quality wine at a reasonable price. The high acidity of these beautiful sparkling wines works very well with seafood.

DESSERT

We have some very special treats in store for everyone looking for a way to end a meal in style – some bottles of Chateau d' Yquem Sauternes, dating from as far back as 1925! Admittedly, these wines are not the sort of things you would buy every week, but in the words of Victor Hugo “As the purse is emptied, the heart is lifted”, so while your purse would be considerably lifted, your heart would soar so high it might never come back down again! A treat, certainly, but everyone deserves a treat now and then!

LOIRE

The Loire valley has produced some classic white wines that people from all over the world have tried to emulate. Sancerre and the recently fashionable-again Muscadet are dry, clean wines with a mineral edge, perfect for clearing the palate or with seafood dishes. The Vouvray Demi-Sec however is a Chenin Blanc in the old style, more subtle and somewhat more refined than most of the New World wines.

RHONE

Grenache and Syrah reign supreme in this region, producing fairly robust wines. Our Cote du Rhone-Villages and Cotes du Ventoux are fine examples of good, full-bodied French reds that won't wear down your bank balance. A good region to visit frequently when choosing some wine for the weekend.

GERMANY

German wine is another region which has started to find friends again, after losing many fans disgusted with poor-quality, saccharine-sweet Liebfraumilch and Hock. Fortunately there is much more to Germany than wines which would rot your teeth at 20 paces. A good German Riesling will taste sweet, but be perfectly balanced by the acidity to make one of the best food wines in existence.

HUNGARY

Hungary has been a major wine producer for centuries, yet it has not been known for producing world-class varieties. That is, apart from the sublime Tokaji dessert wine. Our Tokaji 6 Puttonyos, the highest level of sweetness possible for this type, is made by Dobogo. This is not a wine to be frugal over – splash out on a bottle, and enjoy the complex honeyed flavour and rich intensity on the palate.

NEW ZEALAND

HAWKES BAY

This region is situated near the town of Napier on the east coast of North Island. It is the country's second-largest wine region and has a wide range of soil types, allowing for a variety of different expressions from a single grape variety. Trinity Hill is one of the best producers of wine from this region we have come across, showcasing the high quality of wines available.

MARLBOROUGH

Situated on South Island, Marlborough has become synonymous with pungent, grassy Sauvignon Blanc. Crisp and clean, yet very full-flavoured, Marlborough Sauvignon has become almost the automatic choice for aperitif wines from the New World. The cool climate also allows excellent Pinot Noir and rose wine to be produced, the entire output of the region the envy of many winemakers across the world. When you taste the quality of the wines on our list you will know exactly why Marlborough became New Zealand's most important grape-growing region.

MARTINBOROUGH

The richly flavoured yet beautifully styled wines from Ata Rangi sit among the highest quality coming out of New Zealand. PORTUGAL

Like Italy, Portugal has hundreds of indigenous grape varieties which go into many styles of wine, yet the country has not enjoyed the same level of popularity as its other European rivals. However, there is definitely a lot more to the wines of Portugal than Port, and we have started to see some excellent wine coming through to the UK. The Caves Alianca winery has been doing great things with both red and white wines, their Bical Galeria and Tinta Roriz outstanding and unusual wines of great quality.

SOUTH AFRICA

South Africa continues to go from strength to strength. After some shaky beginnings the country is now demonstrating an ability to produce great wines at all price levels, as a result it is one of the fastest-growing sections on our list. Stellenbosch has staked its claim as one of the world's best areas for white wines while some great things are being done with reds in areas such as Paarl. South African wines serve as an interesting bridge between the full-flavoured New World styles and the more refined

ALICANTE

The Mediterranean coast of Spain produces a wide array of wines, though the majority of its output has yet to reach the standard required to be considered as serious contenders on the international market. That said, the potential of this region has been noticed and harnessed by a few talented winemakers, including the team at Bodegas Sierra Salinas. The estate is small but perfectly formed, coming up with a red of intense richness from blends of Monastrell, Garnacha and Cabernet Sauvignon.

JUMILLA

An outbreak of the phylloxera pests threatened to destroy Jumilla's output in 1989, but clever winemakers saw this as an opportunity to reinvent the region once the outbreak has been dealt with. Wines from Jumilla tend towards lighter, fruitier styles composed of the Monastrell grape, which still retain the characteristic higher alcohol levels shared by many Spanish reds. The wines from Juan Gil are particularly fine ambassadors for the region.

MALLORCA

One of Spanish wines best kept secrets, Mallorca has only recently begun exporting its historic wines. Some of the family owned vineyards date back to the 15th Century, and its rich heritage is reflected in the quality of the wine. The Bodega Macia Batle produces rich yet easy drinking reds and is well worth a try.

RIOJA

One of the most well-known wine regions of Spain, and possibly even the world, the reds of Rioja are the wines that spring to mind first when most people think of Spanish wine. There are of course many other Spanish wine-producing regions but Rioja did not achieve its fame by accident. Producing easy to drink, full-flavoured wines from the Tempranillo grape, recent vintages have only enhanced the reputation of this already highly-regarded region. Our selections from Vega Del Rayo and Artesa show off those inviting characteristics at a very reasonable price.

RIO TEM0510	Rioja Tempranillo 2009	2009	Artesa	Tempranillo	£7.99

RUEDA

This old winemaking area has recently found a second lease of life, evolving rapidly since winning DO status in 1980. Extensive replanting of the area's native grapes, in particular Verdejo, has led to a new generation of fresh, young, very fruity wines.

TORO

This red wine zone, which attained DO status in 1987, is located in Castille-Leon, east of Zamora in the Duero Valley. The hallmark of this region is Tinta de Toro, a variant of Tempranillo, which displays in the rich, ripe and powerful wines made from it high levels of alcohol masked by deceptive fruit flavours on the palate.
